

Nazis → interesting in NCERT

→ NO history events # 😊

→ How history developed, problems occupy them historians studied past → what it means ???

⇒ Important to know the past. 1)

Why it is Important to know the past??

→ Because learning, studying, knowing history (past) teaches us ^{about the} the present % (tells) _{mission}

① ⇒ Past teaches us about the present 😊

→ past is not a thing just to know. past is not "Isolation"

~~Past is the~~

Past informs & shaping the present situation

② ⇒ past informs & responsible for shaping the situations/decisions of present.

Example: En: speaking English

😊 due to past only we are learning English, how important of English effective in countries
 In schools → leaders for spoken English

→ All should talk in English only & penalties ~~giving~~ if we not talk / if we talk in some regional languages our regional language is "NOT ENGLISH" but still they are making us to learn English, why?

Because, past controlling colonies through higher officials need some support from local native people also, then due to language barrier, they ~~making~~ make English as medium to talk

& then natives should learn English / who have idea in English are getting more jobs,

History builds empathy:

→ ~~study~~ we will study diff cultures, diff problems faced

Ex: slavery

Why girls getting ^{reservations} "priority" separate to get seat?
 What past happens? we can know fashion sense of dresses of women → The pockets are small so that they can buy "Handbags"

Men will study past/history of women → Handbag Industries

~~Studying about~~ past → studying of past of diff culture, diff society, ~~diff~~ opposite gender → creates Empathy

Learning about struggles, cultures, opposite genders → helps to relate to others more deeply

Intensely personal: families, traditions, personal experiences are from past

Knowing about their forefathers / previous generations.

"CREATES EMPATHY"

↓ some works for East India company some are went to that country due to position etc

→ it will be like solving a puzzle

Everything has History

?? letters

→ studied & packed again because to not pass any harmful information we will understand the situation better if we come through perspective of history

Ex: Manual Attendance

→ Biometric

→ slide 1:

2nd slide:

→ can we really know History truth?

How we really find what happened in history

REALLY??

time machine??

video recording??

→ Can't cover everyone's perspective's

my frame we can understand very difficult to get absolute truth

Positivist view of History

→ ① August Comte's positivist philosophy

② British empiricist tradition

③ Rortian tradition

Three Traditions

E.H. Carr ⇒ "Common Sense view of History"

Historian sees history as science

* common sense view of history

Q If we do/see it in a certain way, we can ~~have~~ know the ?? truth of history

August Comte & positivist philosophy.

→ Universal laws

we get to these laws by induction,

↳ from induction

~~Assuming some true & others~~

observe some facts

"The World can be known by universal laws."

??

Three stages: (progress human knowledge)

(1) Theoretical (or) religious

(2) metaphysical (or) abstract

(3) Scientific (or) positive

Traditional phase of not believing these or not accepting everything blindly #

human civilization, religion

⇒ exists in sky ⇒ let's pray to it & worship it

⇒ Fearing to Natural uncertainties

⇒ Why did ill happen?

⇒ Started thinking how it happening?

→ created some ideas to observing phenomenons #

Any acceptable tradition, faith, speculation are not followed.

and only believe if there is logical answer to this.

These three stages are progressions

→ How we understand history through this?

The positivist philosophy allows human beings to know history by observing absolute universal laws about past

→ Can know history like science. # scientific way #

Knowledge → coming through observation & experience

from general laws

→ These are derived through Induction

other sense view of History

② EMPIRICIST TRADITION:

→ We can only know (knowledge) by only experience.

(not by Tradition, faith, superstition, Imagination)

There are not the source of human knowledge

→ The taste & etc we are knowing by sensing it. i.e. by sensing / or by experience ⇒ is called "Empirical Tradition"

≠ primary of senses

source of knowledge

Knowledge

↳ Not on based of Tradition, belief, abstraction (or) Imagination legitimate form of knowledge when it is verified & experienced

③ Rankian Tradition:

Rankian → German philosophers

→ proposed idea ⇒ We can really know history as it was.

in certain way

⇒ The past should be understood by "ISOLATION" of present.

procedure

⇒ Historian should write based on "SOURCES"

called RANKIAN Tradition

↳ not all sources of history are equal

⇒ primary & secondary sources

≠ primary of facts

End of

if at time written primary sources

↳ telling about history
ex. migration in 1947.

if offer certain years written secondary source

≠ providing references

referencing of sources

Interview of situation experience person primary

since experience

secondary

??

since better saying in present

→ can be possible to say / not say some facts collecting facts

can tell history of

→ ~~can~~ can/may be passed like stories Tradition of story telling study of folk dailer songs... etc can be also history

8/12 history as science
⇒ British empiricist tradition ~~facts are like~~

①

What is Historical fact??

→ All facts about past → are Historical facts. X

→ Certain Basic facts ⇒ Makes Backbone of History

Ex: slavery movements

→ Not all facts are Historical facts X

 The facts relevant to past & these facts historical facts decided by Historian / knowing some facts:
↳ doesn't mean a Good Historian

Ex: I know World-war-I 1914-1919
→ But I am not historian but I have some idea

Ex: → Historical fact: Danelm march

Who decides a fact of history?

(lec) (Rec)

to present of past

to present of past

to present of past

to present of past

prev-year Question:

What is common sense view of history? How historian approach question of "facts" & role they play in writing of history?

→ Common Sense view of History:

↳ 19th century Great age of facts

→ most historians write by "getting the right facts". in writing history.

⇒ "E.H. Carr" has called ⇒ common sense view of History.

→ it is a positivist / scientific understanding of history & derived from three traditions

① August Comte's positivist philosophy:

② Empirical Tradition (British Empiricist Tradition)

③ Rankian Tradition

① August Comte's positivist philosophy:

→ We can know the world by universal laws. → just like physics & chem

→ These laws are not individual facts, they are general laws.

→ These laws are derived ~~from~~ Ind by Induction. #

Laced by Universalism & espoused by Enlightenment tradition ??

Advocated the formulation of universal laws. ??

Three stages human history progress: religious (belief, tradition, fear) worship

① Theoretical (or) fictitious → believe all

② metaphysical (or) abstract → checking / thinking about how things happen

③ scientific (or) positive → only believe if it is verified science evidence # influenced by universalism &

inspired by enlightenment, (reason, science, progress)

② The British Empiricist Tradition: → knowledge only through experience

→ it is not coming from imagination, tradition, belief e.t.c abstraction.

→ The knowledge is like sensing

Like taste, smell, touch is sensing similarly history knowledge should be core through experiencing

Primacy of Senses

⇒ The knowledge should be in form of legitimate form of knowledge that whose truth can be verified.

Extensive facts are like external, means it is coming to receiver passively.

(Sense impressions)

(3) Rankian Tradition:

Primacy of facts

→ we can know entire past as it was.

⇒ History will tell us how it really was → Through facts

→ historian doesn't mean what about what is facts mean. Their job is simply collecting the facts

⇒ By collecting the facts ⇒ History can be known completely

→ historian should write past based on "sources"

→ some strong sources makes "backbone" of history

History should be understood / solidified Isolation to present, & forgotten

Relationship b/w historian & facts:

① → Not all facts are treated as historian facts.

→ The historian selectively picks/decides certain facts of past as historical facts based on relevance with past

→ These are facts that are important to understand PAST

② There are some certain historical facts where historian can't do it wrong ex:

Battles, movements, slavery, etc.

→ a person knowing them correctly doesn't mean to be a historian

Just knowing these accurately is Not historian

These are basic structure of history. Important for history

① ^{##} → Facts doesn't speak themselves. They 'historian makes them speak & decides' which facts to give voice off. ¹

→ The 'historian' The facts' becomes "historical facts" based on selection, & relevance of fact → ~~not~~ selection (omission) by historian ^{##}

④ The way in which historian interpret facts is on his own context & ^{##} form their own writing.

→ Hence both Historian & history end up writing are shaped by present ^{##}

L2 Society & Individual

Society or Individual ⇒ Hen (or) egg

"which comes first"

Society & Individual are Inseparable

→ They are necessary & complementary to each other

No man is an island, entire of itself
→ every man is piece of continent ^{##}

→ ~~The language~~ Every human born is part of society

→ The language which he/she speaks is not individual inheritance ^{##}

It is a social society thing where he grows up ^{##}

No man is an island, entire of itself
→ every man is piece of continent, a part of main

Society & individual

Inseparable

They are complementary things exist → both exist

else → both NO

Not opposite things

Language Speakers also a society thing where he grows up

No person is separate

→ Individual make society & society shapes Individual

→ Its a two-way process #

Simpler society → "more uniform" smaller diversities of individuals #

⇒ Interdependence grows with growing complexity

Comple society → is society where interdependence of individuals on other Things is advanced / used #

Cult of Individual

Where this "idea" of individual starts?

↳ how we started thinking us as Individual #

Renaissance

↳ "The development of the Individual"

→ The cult of individual ⇒ begin with RENAISSANCE

Revival of Humanism potential creativity & self-determination where man had been conscious of himself only as member of race, people, family, party, etc became a spiritual individual & recognised himself as ⇒ Later connected with Capitalism & protestantism.

doms

movement

in protest of ...

⇒ units of production & distribution

⇒ large in hands of single individuals

⇒ strongly emphasize the role of individual cult. #

⇒ individualism → is ~~not~~ ~~longer~~ is opposition b/w individual & society. #

→ pursue own desires, happiness, comfort, material progress aspirations

→ become more acceptable

∴ Individualism becomes stronger & stronger as it forming complete society it doesn't mean revolt of individual against society

(No)

state of history → individuals informed by society

⇒ certain needs, aspirations, desires is forbidden

Ques

① what is historian

② what about history written by historian

Ques 1:

we studied

talks about historians & writing history

⇒ History is written by individuals about individuals

∴ Historian what will do individual perspective

society perspective

→ observing & writing ??

not like observing

by side & writing

⇒ They will involve ??

⇒ knowledge of historian ⇒ not his individual possession

⇒ The subjects of their histories are not isolated individuals

⇒ Capitalism: individual effort & become economic success self-achievement

⇒ Protestantism: personal relationship with god diminishes the authority of centralized beh...

⇒ emphasized with conscience, self-discipline, hard work

Utilitarianism,

(1) built upon individualism

It argued that best society is one where maximizes individual happiness. #

this makes the individual to improve & pursue their goals #

→ Historians are not observers of history

they are both shaped by it & contribute to its ongoing

Historian: → Both product & spokesman in his society historian is product of their time, influence by cultural norms & etc

Ex: National historians → focus on nation glory

Marxist historians → focus on class struggle

⇒ A part of procession of history

Historians do not stand outside, embedded in it.

Positionality determines angle of vision of past historian's background

→ historian's background, ideology, location shape their interpretation of events. #

⇒ historian class, gender, religion, political influence their perspective

May change his position along the way progression of history is moving procession

procession

procession: it's a bunch of people moving, align in a specific direction

If we see history as moving procession, then what is the role of historian

In this perspective. #

→ is historian as a bird over procession & looking at birds eye view?

→ is historian is sitting in real event?

→ observe from near

* Revise *

⇒ If history is moving in certain / specific procession then historian is not along

x x x v.v.v Imp

Historian's

He is embedded sideways X

in it in observing like bird from top X

centre

& move along with the direction of

procession

Where they are in procession

determines what they will write about and "current conditions" will determine how they write history.

⇒ Historians can change their position in "procession"

↓ progression

The central point of this: Historian

↳ doesn't fly over the moving procession of history X

→ Not from side-lines observing. X

→ Historian is very much part of procession of that they are studying/trying to understand part of procession ✓

Position & current situation determines writing of history ✓

can change pos? ✓

⇒ How does the historian change if historian is very much part of society that they are surrounded by?

The conditions of society we are surrounded by change/influence the historian on what kind of history he is writing about. #

Ex: E.H. Carr. → British

↳ British history in 19th century

& in After 1st world war

19th century for British is colonial expansion, full money inflowing, Dominant in whole world. #

→ 19th century all good things to British history

⇒ After WWI: ~~the~~ some fall in British history

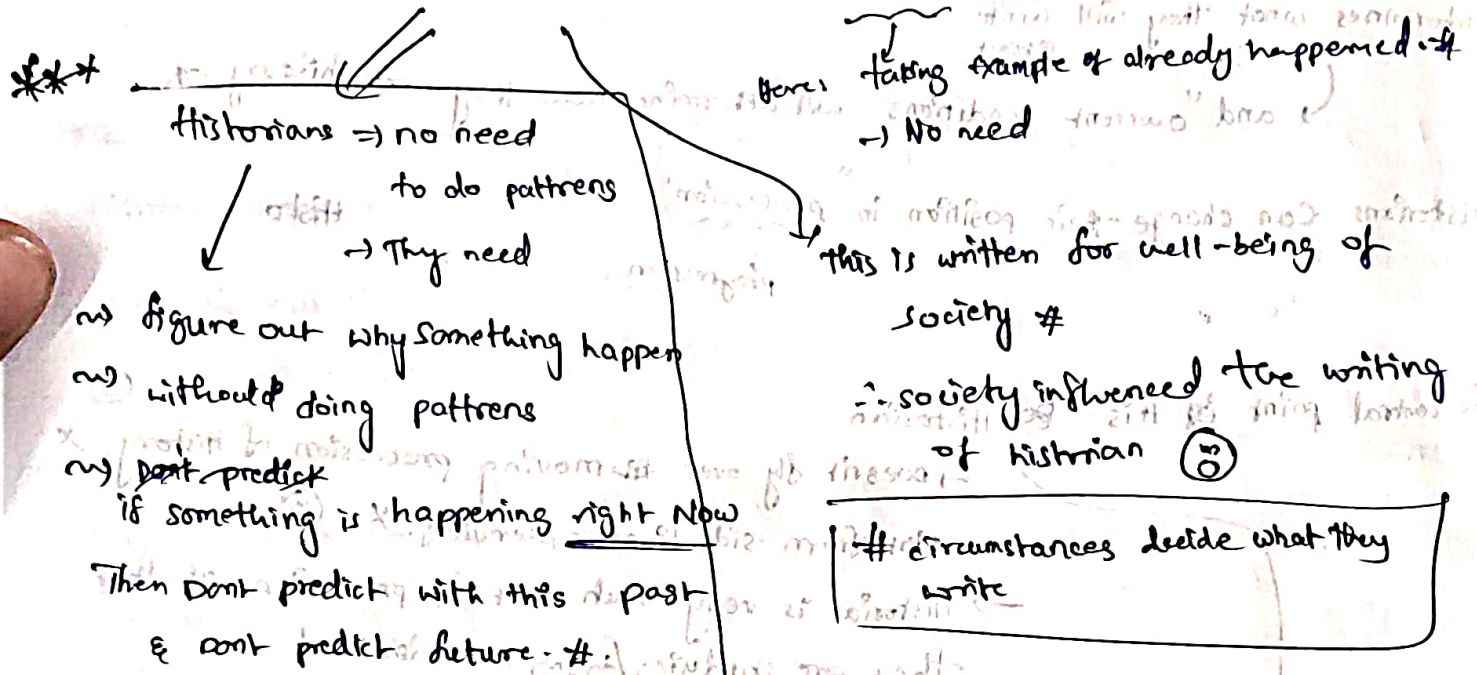

History being

But historians writes, ~~he will comeback~~

Now there is some decline in (decrease) British history

→ we will get back glorious like before.

etc with some patterns, years.

Carr told: "Before you study history, study historian" Imp

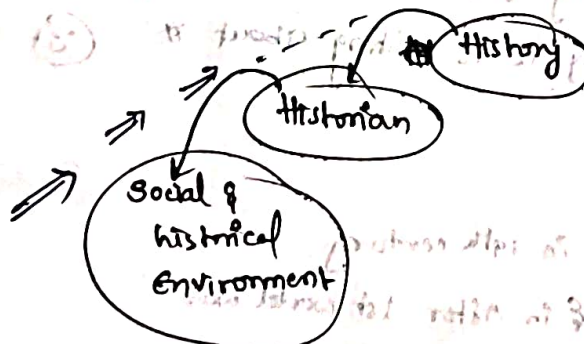

→ This will tell us what is going to be write.

"Before you study the Historian, study his historical & social environment" Imp

→ understand the his/her social & historical environment

✓ (before understanding/studying, about what they written) because this influence what he writing

→ posⁿ of individuals in history that historian writes ??

⇒ action of social forces?

⇒ The great Men theory of history

Understanding objects of historian's enquiry

behavior of individuals

⇒ Historian's emerging from what is history & how it is written

* History is very selective

* Historians choose historical facts which are very selective to them. ^{vir. Imp}

* They are writing about "great men" :-

individual genius : who did great things : Ashoka, Akbar, Gandhi

Ex: why Ashoka doing ~~that~~ at that time?

⇒ How we understand Ashoka's thing?

↙ just to know what he did X

* (know what he did, why he did, what is society conditions, what is the individual behaviour at that time. #)

Ex: Gandhi, Cambridge school of historians wrote about Gandhi

→ What he does?

→ Why he does? (due to Non-cooperation, Quit India)

→ how he pulls people?

Nehru & Patel: → shape after independence

→ # nature of post-independence state

→ no women suffering

Local leaders more local leaders they circulate the message what Gandhi want to do

∴ they joined #

Rajendra prasad - Bihar

↙ Travel through Bihar & promote National movements, "Motivates, Awareness"

Ex of Example of "Role of individual" is history the stuff of Individual genius??

→ No, because individual is important in history, but history is not only stuff of individual genius.

Because, if there is no colonial rule by British in India, "Gandhi" might not be a ~~great~~ great historical man, so history

→ So history is not result of personal genius but it is a structural & Collective social forces is the theory essentially escapist?

Yes, since it doesn't tell about social forces that make the individual great.

(or) ⇒ Blaming / overlooking individuals rather than engaging with structural realities that shape society.

Can the behaviour of men as individuals separated from as members of groups?

Yes, any leader leading a group of people acts on basis of Advices, followers & on social conditions.

⇒ Their behaviour was different from Isolation (Individual)

ex: Gandhi

How do we understand rebels & dissidents in history? ?? (doubt)

some face opposition, marginalization, persecution
Yet they recognized as Heroes, while others remain controversial & forgettable

Do great men lie outside history?

No, (great) leaders → product of their time
